EU Policy Analysis strand

The Policy Analysis strand is multidisciplinary at heart, fusing (a) policy content analysis and (b) the use of analytics software and techniques to analyse policies with Eurostat data. Participants will have the opportunity to apply the newly acquired skills in the form of a capstone project.

EU Social & Foreign Affairs strand

The Social and Foreign affairs strand serves as a unique insight into European integration along with insights in EU's global policies, touching on security and strategy, social policies, local policies and governance, issues of trust and multicultural diversity.

The school is a unique opportunity for people from a wide range of backgrounds, especially those seeking to integrate skills across the board and interested in some meaningful combination of these topics, professionally, academically or otherwise.

The school's content is relevant to policy advisors, social scientists, scholars or PhD students, master students and senior or final year undergraduates in the Social Sciences at large, including Public policy studies, EU studies, Political Science, International Relations or Area studies. Applicants with 'mild' learning needs are strongly encouraged to apply.

Of course, peer-to-peer networking is there for every participant.
